

Policy Statement on Supply Chain Due Diligence Act

CSL is a leading global biotechnology company with a dynamic portfolio of life-saving medicines, including those to treat hemophilia and immunodeficiencies, vaccines to prevent influenza, and therapies for iron deficiency, dialysis and nephrology. Since our beginning in 1916, we have been guided by our promise to save lives using the latest technologies. Today, CSL delivers life-saving products to more than 100 countries and employs 32,000 people.

As a responsible company, compliance with the requirements of the German supply chain due diligence act (Lieferkettensorgfaltspflichtengesetz) is a matter of course for CSL. Our products serve to protect and improve the lives and health of people. The protection of human rights and the environment goes hand in hand with this.

Our business activities are based on our globally applicable Statement of Human Rights Principles as well as our Code of Conduct. We set these standards not only for ourselves, but also expect our direct and indirect suppliers to comply with the supply chain due diligence act and are committed to implementation in our supply chain.

Our global risk management system (Third Party Risk Management) meets the requirements of the supply chain due diligence act. We identify, assess and prioritize human rights and environmental risks in our own business area and along our supply chain. Where necessary, we take appropriate preventive and remedial measures. We document these and include them in our annual reporting.

Complaints regarding human rights or environmental incidents that have occurred or are threatening to occur in connection with CSL's operations or those of our suppliers can be reported at <https://secure.ethicspoint.com/domain/media/en/gui/73706/index.html>.

We regularly review our policy statement and our efforts to protect human rights and environmental concerns and update them as needed.
